| Introduction to the United States and the different regions will be given by a short presentation by auxiliar de conversación. The goals and requirements of the group project will also be outlined during the introductory slides. Students will learn specific vocabulary related to the United States and how to talk about geographic regions and locations. Included in the planning of their presentations they will write ideas and thoughts on a worksheet provided at the beginning of the activity to help organize their presentation. Students will work together to create a presentation of their choice that meets the basic requirements of the exercise to explain their researched topic to the class. Students will practice their speaking abilities in front of the class through presentations at the end of the activity. |

| Criteris d'avaluació |
| Assessing group work will be completed through an oral speaking rubric for requirements to meet during the presentation. Their performance in the presentation will be evaluated by the teacher to determine how effective the students oral speaking skills are. Rubric used for grading this speaking activity is attached for review. |
